TO THE CLASS OF 1958

Education is a continuing process. This statement has never been more true than today. Fast changing developments in a tense world situation emphasize the important role of education. Our national survival demands that we must at least match the Soviet Union in their technological advances. This can only be done if every individual recognizes his own importance in this endeavor. After recognition comes action! Action means to work and to learn. If we continually strive for better performance and greater knowledge, we must succeed. We must remain intellectually curious on all fronts, socially, as well as technologically.

Administration

The School's Obligation to the Student

The purposes are (1) to assist in the selection of a trade course, (2) to check for steady progress toward his immediate goal - graduation with a high school diploma, (3) to endeavor to place the graduate in a starting job in his trade or aid in the selection of further education (4) to follow up on his progress after leaving school.

The Student's Obligation to Himself

To best prepare himself, the student should have (1) an excellent attendance record with as little tardiness as possible, (2) consistently maintain the best grades of which he is capable (3) become as proficient as he can at the trade and (4) develop those habits and attitudes towards schooling which will warrant and command the recommendation of his teachers and school for whatever he undertakes.

Both obligations must be met, if the school is to turn out well-rounded citizens.
